Beauty for

Actually, my purpose was to heal myself.

I have had a long journey with my skin over the years. Acne, spots, and scars made life difficult. Doctors offered temporary solutions, but I found lasting healing through my own research and by discovering the right ingredients.

During the pandemic, I started an Instagram page to share my experiences, and it attracted far more interest than I ever expected. The support of women inspired me deeply. Today, together with my husband Tamer and our friend Özgür, we founded Jijivisha—a reflection of that journey and my desire to inspire women.
